1. Executive Summary

This comprehensive report offers a detailed evaluation of the implementation progress of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) Action Plan-Phase II (2021-26) in Bangladesh. The NSSS serves as a pivotal roadmap designed to reform the nation's social protection system, with the overarching objectives of reducing poverty and inequality while contributing to overall economic progress.

The report underscores the significant headway that has been made in fulfilling the NSSS's vision of creating a more equitable and inclusive society. By targeting disadvantaged groups and striving to ensure access to essential social services, the NSSS has played a crucial role in enhancing the well-being and livelihoods of the most vulnerable segments of the population. Through its various components, including cash transfers, social insurance, and social services, it addresses multifaceted needs, striving to make a substantial impact.

The report's preparation process was characterized by a systematic and collaborative methodology, beginning with consultation workshops and drawing data from various authoritative sources. The accuracy of the report was ensured through rigorous analysis within the Cabinet Division and review and approval by the Action Plan Sub-Committee. Technical assistance from the Social Security Policy Support (SSPS) Programme and the Technical Assistance and Support for Social Security Reform (TASSR) team further enhanced its credibility.

The structure of the report consists of three distinct but interconnected parts. Part 1 explores the achievements and contributions of the NSSS in reducing poverty, enhancing employment opportunities, and empowering vulnerable populations. Part 2 delves into the accomplishments of individual ministries and thematic clusters within the action plan. It also evaluates reform initiatives, beneficiary selection processes, and the Government-to-Person (G2P) modality of cash transfer. Part 3 introduces the Core Diagnostics Instrument (CODI) assessment (report prepared separately), providing an external perspective on the nation's progress in social protection.

Additionally, the report highlights key sectors of Bangladesh's economic development, including the crucial role of the garment industry, advancements in agriculture, improvements in education, healthcare, women's empowerment, microfinance initiatives, renewable energy, and digitalization.

Bangladesh's vision of becoming a "Smart Bangladesh" underscores its commitment to harnessing digital technology and innovation for economic growth and governance improvement. This entails strengthening digital infrastructure, enhancing e-governance, supporting startups, improving healthcare services, enhancing digital skills, and ensuring cybersecurity.

Of particular note is the expansion of the social safety net program, which has effectively reduced poverty rates by targeting the poorest segment of the population. This targeted approach demonstrates the NSSS's commitment to reaching those who are most in need.

The report's evaluation extends to individual line ministries and their progress in implementing specific action plans. It is evident that the majority of these ministries are on track in their pursuit of targeted goals. This alignment with the action plans signifies substantial progress in realizing the NSSF's vision.

However, some ministries appear to face challenges in the execution of their action plans, which may be attributed to external factors such as the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic and the changing global economic landscape. It is essential to acknowledge these external factors as potential influences on the pace of implementation.

While the report reveals areas of success and significant strides made by the NSSF, it also does not shy away from highlighting instances where the strategy has faced obstacles and has not achieved its intended goals. The report emphasizes that these areas of non-performance require immediate attention and remediation.

In conclusion, this report offers a comprehensive and insightful overview of the implementation progress of the NSSF Action Plan-Phase II. It emphasizes the strategy's achievements in reducing poverty, improving livelihoods, and advancing the well-being of vulnerable populations. It also takes into account the challenges faced by specific ministries, particularly in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic and the dynamics of the global economy. This report underscores the imperative of addressing shortcomings while building upon successes to ensure the continued realization of the NSSF's mission to promote social protection and economic development in Bangladesh. As the NSSF continues its journey, ongoing vigilance and adaptability will be essential to achieving its long-term objectives.

2. Introduction

2.1. Introduction

The National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) of Bangladesh, introduced in 2015, represents a pivotal and comprehensive framework designed to address the multifaceted social protection needs of the country's most vulnerable populations. This holistic strategy aims to elevate the living standards of disadvantaged groups, which include the elderly, persons with disabilities, women and children, and low-income households. Rooted in the government's vision of fostering a society characterized by equity and inclusivity, the NSSS is unequivocally committed to reducing poverty and advancing sustainable development throughout the nation.

As part of its overarching goal, the NSSS integrates three principal components, each strategically tailored to meet specific needs. These components encompass cash transfers, social insurance, and social services. Cash transfers are meticulously directed toward the most vulnerable households, providing them with regular financial support essential for meeting their basic necessities. In parallel, social insurance programs are systematically designed to offer protection against distinct risks, such as health, disability, and the challenges posed by old age. The third facet, social services, includes crucial access to healthcare, education, and a spectrum of other indispensable services aimed at enhancing the overall well-being of the population.

The implementation of the NSSS is a collaborative endeavour that involves various government ministries and agencies, such as the Ministry of Social Welfare, the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, the Ministry of Education, and the Ministry of Agriculture, among others. These entities work in unison to execute the strategy's multifaceted initiatives. Moreover, the strategy strategically partners with civil society organizations and private sector entities to extend the reach and efficacy of its social protection programs.

One of the most noteworthy accomplishments of the NSSS is the substantial expansion of the social safety net program, an initiative that provides vital cash transfers to over 5 million households. Crucially, this program is meticulously targeted toward the poorest 20 per cent of the population, ensuring they receive regular financial assistance to address their basic needs. This precision in targeting has led to tangible reductions in poverty rates within the country.

Furthermore, the NSSS has significantly advanced by introducing a social health protection program. This transformative initiative extends health insurance coverage to impoverished and vulnerable households, with the ultimate aim of ensuring universal access to essential health services. The implementation of this program occurs through strategic collaborations with private insurance companies and healthcare service providers.

While the NSSS has undeniably achieved commendable milestones, it is not devoid of challenges. Principal among these challenges is the necessity to enhance the precision and effectiveness of targeting social protection programs to reach the most deserving beneficiaries. A second vital challenge is the optimization of coordination among diverse ministries and agencies engaged in implementing the strategy.

In summation, the NSSS of Bangladesh is emblematic of a comprehensive, forward-looking framework committed to addressing the critical social protection needs of its most vulnerable populations. It has made impressive strides in expanding social safety net programs and introducing innovative social health protection initiatives. Nevertheless, it remains a work in progress, calling for continued diligence and collaborative efforts to ensure the equitable distribution of social protection benefits among those who need them the most. This progress report delves into the nuanced implementation of the NSSS Action Plan-Phase II (2021-26) to offer a comprehensive evaluation of its advancement towards its objectives.

2.2. Objectives:

The overall objectives of the report is to provide a comprehensive evaluation of the implementation progress of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) Action Plan-Phase II (2021-26) in Bangladesh, with a focus on reducing poverty, promoting equity, and enhancing social protection for vulnerable populations.

2.2.1. Specific Objectives:

Performance Analysis: Assess the achievements and performance of the NSSS in reducing poverty, improving livelihoods, and enhancing the well-being of vulnerable populations.

Transparency and Accountability: Ensure transparency and accountability in the implementation of social protection programs by presenting a transparent account of the achievements and challenges faced.

Data-Driven Decision-Making: Provide data-driven information for policymakers, ministries, and stakeholders to make informed decisions, adjustments, and policy improvements in the ongoing implementation of the NSSS.

International Alignment and Best Practices: Ensure alignment with global standards and best practices in the field of social protection and assess the NSSS in the context of international benchmarks, promoting the adoption of successful strategies from around the world.

3. Report Preparation Process

The methodology for preparing the annual progress report included a comprehensive approach, starting with consultation workshops, data aggregation from various authoritative sources, thorough analysis within the Cabinet Division, review and approval by the Action Plan Sub-Committee, and indispensable technical assistance from the SSPS Programme. This systematic and collaborative methodology ultimately resulted in a comprehensive, reliable, and well-informed progress report that reflects the advancements made in the social security reform agenda and areas for future focus.

The process of generating the progress report was characterized by a well-structured and thorough methodology, emphasizing consultation, analysis, and technical assistance. To begin, the progress report's foundation was laid through a series of consultation workshops. Line ministries, which are crucial stakeholders in the implementation of the action plan, participated in these workshops. Guided by specific instructions, these workshops provided a platform for ministries to present their individual progress reports. This not only facilitated transparency but also allowed for a holistic understanding of the diverse efforts and advancements across various sectors.

In addition to the insights gathered from the workshops, the progress report drew upon a range of data sources. Information was collated from the Finance Division, Statistics and Informatics Division, and other pertinent sources. This multifaceted data collection approach aimed to capture a comprehensive overview of the progress achieved, with data points reflecting various dimensions of the initiatives.

However, the report's accuracy was not solely reliant on data collection; it underwent a rigorous analysis and verification process within the Cabinet Division. This step ensured that the data was not only accurate but also interpreted correctly, enabling a clear depiction of the accomplishments and areas requiring further attention. The thorough analysis also aimed to identify trends, correlations, and potential challenges, enriching the report with valuable insights.

The subsequent review and approval by the Action Plan Sub-Committee headed by the Secretary, Coordination and Reforms of Cabinet Division signified a critical checkpoint in the report's generation. This committee, entrusted with formulation as well as overseeing the alignment and effectiveness of the NSSS Action Plan, played a vital role in ensuring the report's relevance and alignment with broader objectives.

Central to the successful creation of the progress report was the technical assistance provided by the Social Security Policy Support (SSPS) Programme of the Cabinet Division. This program's expertise and support were instrumental in guiding the entire process. From data compilation to analysis, their involvement enhanced the report's credibility and robustness, showcasing the significance of collaborative efforts.

Furthermore, the process of generating the progress report was enriched by the invaluable contributions of the Technical Assistance and Support for Social Security Reform (TASSR) team. This team played a pivotal role in aligning the report with the stringent requirements set forth by the European Union, ensuring that it adhered to international standards and best practices.

The TASSR team's involvement extended beyond mere alignment; they actively participated in enhancing the overall quality of the report. Their meticulous review and feedback mechanisms facilitated the identification and rectification of potential gaps, inconsistencies, and areas for improvement. This collaborative effort significantly bolstered the credibility and effectiveness of the final report. By engaging with the TASSR team, the entire process gained an international perspective, encompassing the broader context of social security reforms and the ever-evolving landscape of global standards.

3.1. Structure of the Report

The structure of the progress report has been thoughtfully designed to encompass a comprehensive and nuanced evaluation of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) implementation up to the year 2023. Divided into three distinct yet interconnected parts, the report offers a holistic perspective on the strategy's impact and effectiveness.

3.1.1. Achievement of Vision

This segment embarks on a comprehensive expedition through the pivotal themes that stand as the bedrock of the strategy's aspirations. These themes resonate with the very essence of societal transformation, spanning the reduction of poverty's grip, fortification against vulnerability's impact, cultivation of avenues for employment, empowerment through human capital development, and the cultivation of a robust environment for overall economic advancement. It delves deep into the strategic contributions that have propelled these pivotal objectives. By meticulous analysis, this section sheds light on how these aspirations have been translated into tangible action, thus carving an indelible mark on the socio-economic fabric of the nation.

Furthermore, the scope of Part 1 transcends the conventional, venturing into a comprehensive examination of the trajectory of social protection spending. In this intricate tapestry, dimensions like nutrition, disability welfare, and gender development are interwoven seamlessly. By illuminating these critical facets, the report's horizon broadens, offering a multifaceted perspective on the strategy's reach and impact. From fostering economic growth to championing the rights of the vulnerable, Part 1 crafts a tale of the vision realized, a journey of promises kept, and a testament to the spirit of progress that beats at the heart of the nation's social and economic evolution.

Part 2: Ministry-Specific Achievements

Within the report's second part lies an immersive journey into the elaborate accomplishments of individual line ministries, intricately woven into the fabric of their time-bound action plans as prescribed by the NSSS. This section, akin to an intricate tapestry, unravels the tangible results that have sprung forth from the dedicated endeavors of each ministry. Through a meticulous evaluation, Part 2 operates as a magnifying lens, allowing stakeholders to intimately gauge the metamorphosis that ministries' collective endeavors have fostered.

This examination takes on a highly granular form, meticulously uncovering achievements, challenges, and milestones. By spotlighting specific triumphs, it gives life to the data, rendering a vivid and multi-dimensional portrayal of progress. Moreover, this microscopic exploration injects depth and context into the overarching narrative of advancement, enabling stakeholders to grasp the real-world implications of strategies put into motion.

Notably, Part 2 doesn't solely revolve around individual ministries; it also delves into the collective performance of thematic clusters, each entrusted with the consolidation of programs and the coordination of efforts within their respective domains. Within this realm, the report assesses the extent to which these thematic clusters have traversed the trajectory toward their predetermined targets. These clusters, numbering five in total, bear a specific responsibility for program unification and overall harmonization within their designated spheres.

In the same vein, the second part assumes a focused lens on the intricate achievements within the domain of social security governance reforms.

Of particular significance is the evaluation of reform initiatives encompassing beneficiary selection processes. This assessment delves into the mechanisms employed to ensure that those most in need receive the intended support. Additionally, the report navigates the landscape of the Single Registry Management Information System (MIS), exploring the strides made to augment its capabilities and streamline its functionalities.

The transformative journey further extends to the "Government-to-Person" (G2P) modality of cash transfer which has a great role in fostering transparency, minimizing leakage, and ensuring that resources reach their intended recipients. Furthermore, the report unveils the evolution of a Grievance Redress System, a mechanism designed to empower citizens and ensure their concerns are addressed promptly within the social security framework.

As this chapter unfolds, it underscores that the progress achieved isn't a solitary effort but a symphony of collaboration and commitment. By examining both the individual contributions of ministries and the collective achievements of thematic clusters, Part 2 reflects the synergy that has propelled the NSSS forward. It portrays the intertwined narrative of transformation—a narrative where individual strides contribute to collective leaps, and where coordination fosters cohesion.

4. National Social Security Performance

Social Security has been one of the most prioritized agendas of the present government. The social protection of Bangladesh, alongside a welfare orientation, is also driven by the need to promote the country's economic development. The vision of the NSSS stipulates that there will be a comprehensive social security system in the country that would contribute to economic development. Thus, social protection is contingent upon economic progress and in turn, the social protection itself has been a tool for economic development.

Without achieving the Social Security of the marginalized people, the government's constitutional obligation is to ensure people's rights to social security is not possible. The long-term objective is to move towards building a social security system that is available to all the people of Bangladesh requiring support, providing them with a guaranteed minimum income but also a comprehensive safety net for those who suffer shocks and crises that may push them into poverty. Thus, the NSSS has a long-term vision as, 'Build an inclusive Social Security System for all deserving Bangladeshis that effectively tackles and prevents poverty and inequality and contributes to broader human development, employment and economic growth.'

The social protection of Bangladesh, alongside a welfare orientation, is also driven by the need to promote the country's economic development. On the other hand, the vision of the NSSS as is mentioned above stipulates that there will be a comprehensive social security system in the country that would contribute to economic development. Thus, social protection is contingent upon economic progress and in turn, the social protection itself has been a tool for economic development. The social protection system crosscuts across various economic and socio-political sectors, involves multiple agencies, and focuses on different global and international policy priorities – not always in full harmony with each other. However, all the factors and entities should be aligned and synchronized with each other. Towards that end, the NSSS Action Plan strives to significantly contribute to achieving the goal of establishing Sonar Bangla of Bangabandhu by formulating and implementing different national policies, anchored in the Constitution, Perspective Plans, and Five-Year Plans. The Action Plan utilizes the Annual Performance Agreement (APA) for aligning social security with other strategic objectives of the government and establishing accountability mechanisms for the implementation of the NSSS Agenda.

4.1. Overview of NSSS

A comprehensive understanding of the progress report necessitates an overview of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) and its subsequent action plans. The NSSS, rooted in the constitutional obligations of Bangladesh, is an encompassing framework designed to accelerate economic growth, address basic needs, create jobs, enhance cultural and recreational facilities, and ensure social security for the most vulnerable citizens. This strategy reflects a holistic commitment to societal development, guided by principles of inclusivity, targeted interventions, and resilience. In order to implement the NSSS two phases of Action Plans were formulated by the Cabinet Division. These are the NSSS Action Plan Phase 1 (2016-21) and NSSS Action Plan Phase 2 (2021-26).

during the Eighth Plan. The GDP outcomes during the various 5-year plan periods is shown in Table below. Bangladesh has increased its average GDP growth rate since the 5FYP. The average growth rate gained speed during the 6FYP and further accelerated to 7.6% during the first 4 years of 7FYP period. However, due to COVID-19, the actual average GDP growth rate stands at 7.13% covering the whole 7FYP period.

Source: 8th Five-Year Plan

Garment Industry: The garment and textile sector has played a pivotal role in Bangladesh's economic development. It has become a major export earner and employer, providing jobs to millions of people, especially women. The RMG sector is crucial to Bangladesh's economy, contributing a major portion (84%) of foreign direct investment (FDI).

Agriculture: Agriculture remains a crucial sector in Bangladesh, employing a large portion of the population and contributing significantly to the economy. Advances in agricultural practices, including the adoption of new technologies, have helped boost productivity and food security. Food production has more than tripled despite shrinking farmland.

Education: Bangladesh has made substantial progress in expanding access to education. Enrollment rates in primary and secondary education have improved, and the government has invested in enhancing the quality of education and increasing the number of educational institutions.

Healthcare: The country has made significant strides in improving healthcare services and reducing child mortality rates. Efforts to combat communicable diseases and improve maternal health have contributed to better overall health outcomes for the population.

Women's Empowerment: Bangladesh has made progress in promoting gender equality and women's empowerment. Women's participation in the workforce has increased, and initiatives have been taken to address issues like gender-based violence and discrimination.

Microfinance: Bangladesh is renowned for its successful microfinance initiatives. Microfinance has empowered millions of people, particularly women, by providing them with access to financial services and helping them start small businesses.

Digitalization: The country has seen a rapid expansion of digital technology and internet penetration, enabling greater connectivity and access to information for its citizens.

As part of maintaining the continuity of the country's progress, the state has indeed set a vision to transform itself into a "Smart Bangladesh." This vision reflects the country's commitment to harnessing the power of digital technology and innovation to accelerate economic growth, improve governance, and enhance the overall quality of life for its citizens. The government of Bangladesh has undertaken various initiatives to realize this vision, improving digital infrastructure, enhancing efficiency and transparency in e-governance, creating a conducive environment for startups and entrepreneurs, leveraging digital technology to improve healthcare services, enhancing the digital skills of the workforce and also ensuring cybersecurity has become a critical concern.

4.2. Action Plan of National Social Security System (NSSS)

The NSSS is a long-term planning for social protection reforms with a view to better tackling the triple problems of poverty, vulnerability, and marginalization. In order to implement the NSSS, an action plan was formulated for the period from 2016 to 2021. At the end of that period, the present phase (2021-2026) of the action plan has been prepared. The Action Plan provides a framework for programmatic reform through the consolidation of programmes according to a lifecycle framework and modernization of the delivery system by use of a Single Registry MIS, G2P, GRS and results-based M&E.

The Action Plan, Phase-2 of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) has been prepared under the overall guidance and supervision of the NSSS Action Plan Sub-Committee. Then, the Ministry finalized the plan, which has been kindly endorsed by the Hon'ble Prime Minister.

The action plan distributes the contents of the document in three parts: (1) the national plan, mainly drawn from reviewing the NSSS itself (2) the action plans of 39 ministries/divisions formulated as an outcome of the workshops participated by the focal points and relevant officials of the ministries and departments, and (3) The thematic cluster action plans include a detailed justification of the basis of the classification of the programmes, situation analysis and the relevant action plans.

4.3. Results-Based M&E / M&E Framework

Monitoring is concerned with the systematic collection and analysis of information which is continuously used to make a minor adjustment in the programme to keep it on track towards achieving the goal. The evaluation looks at what objectives were planned, what was accomplished, and how it was accomplished; information is used to inform policy formulation, strategies, and future interventions. The NSSS incorporates a plan for designing a robust system of monitoring the progress and results of social security programmes to build accountability and advance desired outcomes of the programmes.

The NSSS finds that there is hardly any formal M&E system for social security programmes at present. The existing monitoring system is simply concerned with the progress of each programme in terms of the percentage of expenditure of allocated funds. There is no mechanism to systematically evaluate how well the resources allocated to the SSPs are achieving results in terms of reducing poverty at the national level. This is also absent at the individual programme level. Independent impact assessment of a few programmes done at the behest of development partners shows mixed results of these programmes. Moreover, there is almost no digitized MIS to feed the M&E requirement.

The institution of a results-based M&E is an important recommendation of the NSSS and must be implemented to ensure the achievement of the desired results from a reformed perspective of the present social security system. This will also serve as the basis for performance-based budgeting to ministries for their various programmes. The government has emphasized that an effective result-based M&E system is essential to monitor the implementation of the SFYP and associated sectorial strategies, which would include the NSSS. First, a common understanding of results-based management (RBM) needs to be framed. The current situation with the SSS is that, for the data that is being captured, it tracks the delivery of activities, not results. More information is needed, such as whether or not those beneficiaries had any change in annual income. At this stage, any positive changes in annual income against the poverty line could be considered to have a correlation, but not yet causal effect, for those beneficiaries.

The chain of RBM can best be described as a management philosophy and approach that emphasizes development results in planning, implementation, learning, and reporting. A result is a describable or measurable change that is derived from a cause-and-effect relationship. RBM is based on inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes, and impacts. Inputs and activities are internal looking. Outputs, outcomes, and impacts are centred on external changes. Inputs and activities combine to transform into results.

The NSSS Action Plan proposes a M&E Framework, which needs to be more robust and more practical. For the evaluation of progress in social security programmes, an assessment matrix is required. For this purpose, the matrix called Core Diagnostic Instrument (CODI) seems to be very useful. CODI is an assessment tool developed by the Inter-Agency Social Security Assessments (ISPA) initiative. The CODI allows for adjusting or modifying the field-specific questions according to the national context. The cabinet division has tried to conduct CODI assessments for the last couple of years. This year (2023), the Cabinet Division (CD) has conducted a robust CODI analysis with the support of the Technical Assistance to Support Social Security Reforms (TA SSSR) project funded by the European Union. The technical team has developed a long-form analysis for all 47 indicators of CODI based on the technical workshop, ministry/department data, and secondary data and put forward some recommendations.

4.3.1. Monitoring of NSSS Action Plan

It is important to monitor the progress of the implementation of the NSSS action plan itself. To that end, the Cabinet Division has formulated a framework providing specific indicators against each action with a certain timeframe. The framework mentions the responsibilities of specific ministries for certain activities while also indicating names of other ministries which have supportive roles in implementing them. Thus, the framework ensures the share of accountability of each ministry in the implementation of the NSSS objectives. The report provides the progress of actions planned under each ministry using the mentioned framework.

The ‘Action Plan for Implementation of National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) of Bangladesh – Phase-II (2021-26)’ identified the tool CODI, used for social protection system assessment to support social protection policy-making. By this time, four CODI exercises have been conducted in 2017, 2019, 2022 and 2023. The last one is very structured and comprehensive.

Within the context of the present progress report, the primary focus revolves around the evaluation of the progress achieved during the second phase of the NSSS Action Plan, up to the year 2022-23. This report meticulously examines the strides made, the challenges encountered, and the transformative impact realized across ministries and thematic clusters. By providing a snapshot of achievements within this timeframe, the report highlights the tangible outcomes of ongoing efforts, underscoring the trajectory of advancement towards the NSSS's overarching goals.

Additionally, it is imperative to acknowledge the role of the Mid Term Review (MRT) of the NSSS. This review mechanism serves as a pivotal touchstone, offering an objective assessment of the strategy's progress midway through its implementation. The MRT provides valuable insights into the effectiveness of the NSSS's initiatives, thereby aiding in the identification of strengths and areas for refinement.

4.4. NSSS Action Plan

The National Social Security Strategy Action Plan of Bangladesh is a comprehensive plan that aims to address the social security needs of the country's most vulnerable populations. It was developed by the Government of Bangladesh in 2015, and the implementation period of the plan was from 2016 to 2025. The plan covers a range of areas such as health, education, housing, food security, and social protection. This report provides an overview of the National Social Security

Strategy Action Plan of Bangladesh. Objectives of the National Social Security Strategy Action Plan: The primary objectives of the National Social Security Strategy Action Plan are to improve the livelihoods and well-being of the country's most vulnerable populations, including women, children, the elderly, people with disabilities, and the poor. The plan aims to achieve this by ensuring universal access to essential social services, promoting inclusive economic growth, and providing social protection to vulnerable groups. The specific objectives of the plan include:

- To reduce poverty and inequality through inclusive growth strategies that create opportunities for all.
- To ensure access to basic social services such as health, education, and housing for all citizens.
- To provide social protection to vulnerable populations, including the elderly, people with disabilities, and the poor.
- To promote gender equality and empower women and girls.
- To enhance disaster preparedness and response to mitigate the impact of natural disasters.

Key components of the National Social Security Strategy Action Plan: The National Social Security Strategy Action Plan has six key components that are aimed at addressing the social security needs of vulnerable populations. These components are:

Social safety nets: This component aims to provide cash transfers, food assistance, and other forms of social assistance to the poor and vulnerable populations.

Inclusive economic growth: This component aims to promote economic growth that is inclusive and benefits all citizens, especially those who are most vulnerable.

Essential social services: This component aims to provide access to essential social services such as health, education, and housing to all citizens.

Disaster management: This component aims to enhance disaster preparedness and response to mitigate the impact of natural disasters on vulnerable populations.

Empowerment of women and girls: This component aims to promote gender equality and empower women and girls by providing them with education, healthcare, and economic opportunities.

Governance and institutional strengthening: This component aims to improve governance and institutional strengthening to ensure that social protection programs are well-coordinated, effective, and efficient.

4.5. Progress and challenges:

The implementation of the National Social Security Strategy Action Plan began in 2016, and progress has been made in various areas. For instance, there has been an expansion of the coverage of social safety nets to more vulnerable populations. The government has also invested in the provision of essential social services such as healthcare, education, and housing. There has also been progress in promoting inclusive economic growth and empowering women and girls. However, there are still some challenges in the implementation of the plan. One of the major challenges is inadequate funding, which has hindered the full implementation of some of the key components of the plan.

There is also a need for better coordination among the various stakeholders involved in the implementation of the plan. The National Social Security Strategy Action Plan of Bangladesh is a comprehensive plan aimed at addressing the social security needs of the country's most vulnerable populations. The plan has six key components that cover a range of areas such as health, education, housing, food security, and social protection. Although progress has been made in the implementation of the plan, there are still some challenges that need to be addressed, such as inadequate funding and better coordination among stakeholders. Overall, the plan is an important step towards ensuring that vulnerable populations in Bangladesh are provided with essential social services.

4.6. NSSS and M&E

Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) is an essential process for assessing the implementation and effectiveness of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) in Bangladesh. Monitoring involves the regular collection and analysis of data to track progress towards achieving the objectives of the NSSS. This can include monitoring the implementation of specific programs, tracking the number of beneficiaries, and evaluating the quality of services provided. Monitoring is an ongoing process that allows policymakers to identify potential problems and adjust as necessary. Evaluation involves a more comprehensive assessment of the impact of the NSSS. This can include assessing the effectiveness of specific programs, measuring the changes in the well-being of beneficiaries, and evaluating the overall success of the NSSS in achieving its goals. Evaluation typically involves collecting data through surveys, focus groups, and other research methods.

The M&E process for the NSSS in Bangladesh should include:

- Developing clear and measurable objectives and indicators to track progress towards achieving these objectives.
- Establishing a system for collecting and analyzing data on an ongoing basis.

- Conducting regular reviews of the data to identify problems and adjust as necessary.
- Conducting periodic evaluations to assess the effectiveness of the NSSS and identify areas for improvement.
- Using the findings from monitoring and evaluation to inform decision-making and improve the implementation of the NSSS.
- Effective M&E is critical for ensuring that the NSSS is achieving its intended goals and improving the well-being of the people of Bangladesh.

Bangladesh has made significant progress in implementing Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) processes for its National Social Security Strategy (NSSS). The government of Bangladesh has established a dedicated unit within the Ministry of Social Welfare to oversee the M&E process for the NSSS. The unit is responsible for developing and implementing a comprehensive M&E plan, establishing monitoring and evaluation systems, and conducting periodic evaluations to assess the effectiveness of the NSSS. In addition, the government has made efforts to strengthen the capacity of its monitoring and evaluation systems.

This includes investing in the development of monitoring and evaluation tools, providing training for government officials and other stakeholders on M&E concepts and practices, and improving data management systems. However, there are still some challenges in implementing effective M&E for the NSSS in Bangladesh. These include limited resources, inadequate data collection systems, and a lack of coordination among different government agencies and stakeholders involved in the implementation of the NSSS. Overall, while there is still room for improvement, Bangladesh has made significant strides in implementing M&E processes for the NSSS, which are critical for ensuring the effective implementation of the NSSS and improving the well-being of the people of Bangladesh.

4.7. Social Protection Spending

The number of social security programmes in Bangladesh has continued to increase over the last decades. Lately, with the spirit of programme consolidation as suggested in the NSSS, the number of social security programmes has been reduced. At the beginning of the NSSS reform, the total number of social security programmes was 145 in 2015, which came down to 142 in 2016, and further reduced to 136 in 2017 and to 114 in the current fiscal year. Even though the number of social security programmes has been falling lately, the budget allocation for social security has shown a trend of a gradual rise in the total amount. The allocation has been around 2.5 per cent of GDP and around 15 per cent of the national budget in the past ten years. Last year it was the per cent of GDP which was 16.83 percent of the budget.

Table 1: Social Security Budget as Percentage of National Budget and GDP

Fiscal Year	Total (Tk in Crore)	Per cent of Budget	Percent of GDP
2008-09	13845.27	14.71	2.25

The yearly social security allocation from 2008-09 to 2023-24 fiscal years is shown in the following graph:

4.8. Social Protection Budget (Total)

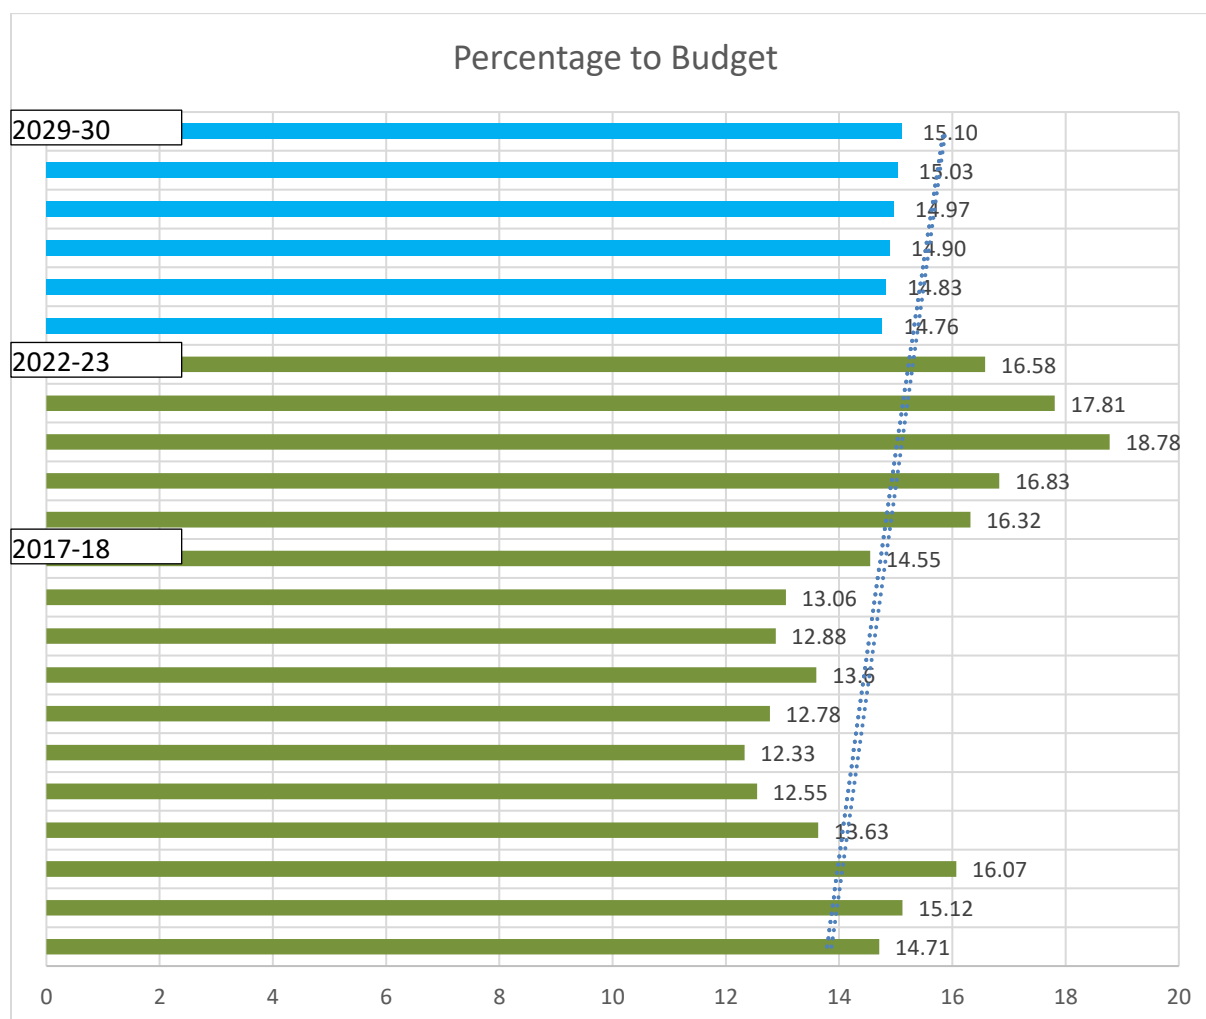

4.9. Social Security Budget Projection

The NSSS Action Plan projected that the social protection budget would reach the level of 116 thousand crore Taka in 2022-23 FY and 139 thousand crore in 2025-26. It is interesting to note that the actual budget slightly exceeded the projection and was above 117 thousand crore Taka as is shown in the following graph. If the social security budget continues the incremental tendency, it may exceed 333 thousand crore in FY 2029-30.

The social protection budget was projected to be just around 15% of the national budget in FY 2022-23, though it actually exceeded 16.58%. In this trend, the social protection budget is expected to maintain the level of 15% in the year 2029-30 as is indicated in the following graph.

4.10. Economic Growth and Poverty:

The vision and the strategic objectives of the NSSS Action Plan Phase-2 is to mainly reduce poverty and contribute to economic growth. Therefore, it is worthwhile to look into the progress in this area.

Real Sector	FY2021	FY2022	FY2023
GDP growth rate (%)	6.9	7.1	6.0
Per capita GDP growth rate (%)	5.7	5.9	4.8
Gross National Savings (% of GDP)	30.8	29.4	30.2
Gross Investment (% of GDP)	31.0	32.1	31.2
GNI Per Capita (USD)	2591	2793	2575

Source: BBS

4.10.1. Economic Growth:

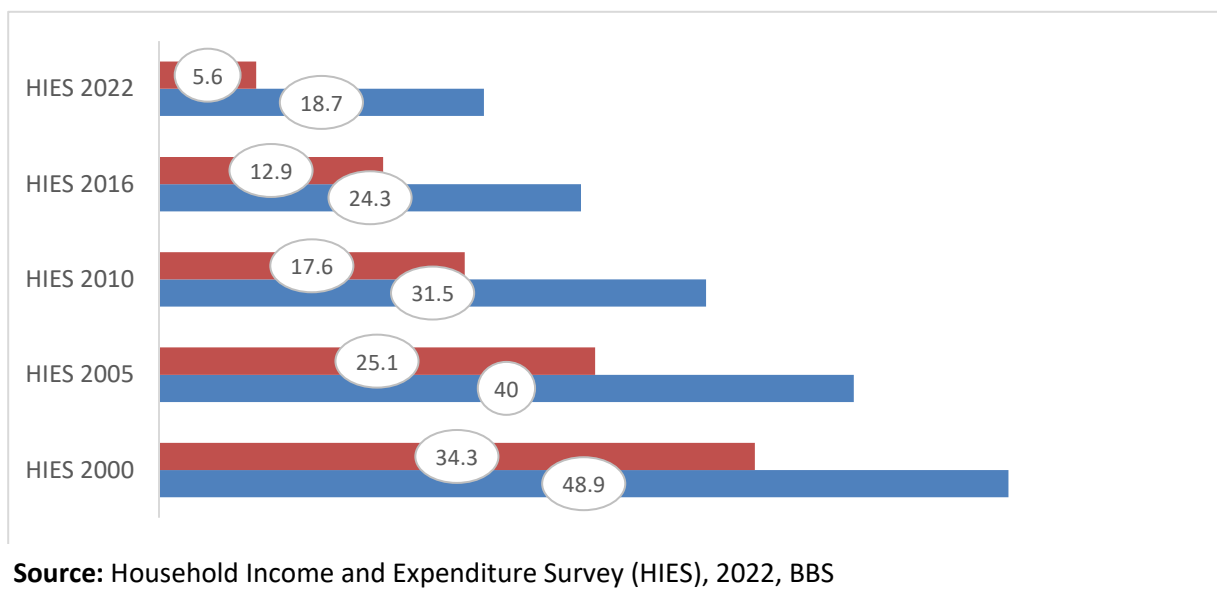

The per capita gross national income (GNI) was $2591 in FY 2021 (the initial year of the Action Plan) which climbed to $2793 in FY2022. However, it declined to $2575 in the last year (report year). In fact, the commendable economic growth in the second year was abruptly disrupted by the global inflationary pressures stemming from the Ukraine War, which had adverse effects on the macroeconomy, particularly the balance of payments, fiscal balance, and inflation. Consequently, the growth trajectory and macroeconomic stability were adversely impacted, with GDP growth expected to decelerate to 6% in FY2023. Though the report year does not have any positive progress in terms of economic growth, the decline was also not very significant. The role of social protection in this regard might have been of great use during this period. Without social protection programmes the economic downturn might have been further accelerated. A dedicated research may reveal the contribution of social protection programmes in sustaining the economic conditions of the country in the aftermath of the Covid-19 and the global economic pressure arising out of the Ukraine war.

4.10.2. Poverty Reduction

The progress in reduction of poverty and inequality showed commendable during this period. The government's effective implementation of the NSSS not only mitigated the adverse impacts of Covid-19 but also led to a substantial reduction in moderate and extreme poverty. According to the Household Income and Expenditure Survey (HIES) in 2022, moderate poverty decreased from 24.3% in 2016 to 18.7% in 2022, and extreme poverty witnessed a significant decline from 12.9% to a mere 5.6% over the same period. The accelerated reduction in extreme poverty, surpassing expectations, is particularly noteworthy, largely due to a more inclusive growth process. The spread of micro-credit and increased participation in outward migration have also played a role in creating non-farm jobs and income opportunities for the less fortunate.

Bangladesh has made remarkable progress in reducing poverty levels. Over the past few decades, the country has experienced consistent economic growth, resulting in a significant decline in the percentage of people living below the poverty line. The poverty rate has been reduced to 18.7% (according to HIES, 2022), which was around 80% during liberation war.

By using the lower poverty lines of HIES 2022, the Head Count Rate (HCR) are estimated 5.6 percent in national level, 6.5 percent in rural area and 3.8 percent in urban area. As per the official poverty numbers of HIES 2016 the HCR were estimated 12.9 percent in national level, 14.9 percent in rural area and 7.6 percent in urban area which were estimated 17.6 percent in national level, 21.1 percent in rural area and 7.7 percent in urban area in HIES 2010.

4.10.3. Inequality

However, the concerning aspect is the lack of progress in reducing inequality. The performance for addressing inequality were not satisfactory as the national income inequality almost reached 0.49 in 2022 which was only around 0.40 in 2016. It is obvious that, the rise in inequality are driven by some national and international economic factors. In absence of social protection redistribution policies of the government including the social protection, the inequality must have been higher. A separate investigation may indicate the role of the robust social protection programmes of the government in containing the inequality below 0.50 during last year.

4.11. Ministry-wise Allocation

As shown in the following table, the highest share of social security allocation goes to the Finance Division, followed by the Ministry of Disaster Management and Relief. In 2021-21, the allocation for Finance Division is Tk. 41,098 Crore. The allocation for the Ministry of Disaster Management and Relief is Tk. 13,152 Crore. The Ministry of Social Welfare is given the third-highest share, amounting to Tk. 69.79 bn which has been raised around four times from fiscal year 2008-09, contrasting with an increase of only 77 percent for Ministry of Disaster Management and Relief over the same period. It is notable that in 2017-18, the top five ministries spend more than 75 percent of the total allocation, while the top 10 ministries spend more than 94 percent of the budget. The spending of the other 14 ministries remains well below 6 percent.

4.12. Life Cycle Based Allocation

The total allocation for social security has been disaggregated in terms of lifecycle stages. It is found that the highest share is allocated for old age people, amounting to 29.87 thousand crore which is equivalent to 31.25 per cent of the total allocation. In contrast, the lowest allocation goes to pregnancy and childhood stages in FY 2019-20. Until the present year, the allocation for pregnancy and early childhood is very low, though the NSSS suggests that the allocation for early childhood should be raised considerably. The child benefit scheme as proposed in NSSS will significantly increase spending on early childhood.

4.13. Thematic Cluster-Based Allocation

Total social security spending disaggregated in terms of thematic clusters is shown in the graph below. The highest allocation goes to the social insurance cluster, amounting to Tk. 29,625 crore which is 31 percent of the total allocation FY 2019-20. The NSSS suggests contributory social insurance, which will reduce the proportion of spending for this cluster. The savings from introducing social insurance can be allocated to the other thematic clusters.

The distribution of social security allocations over the lifecycle stages, as well as the thematic clusters, suggests that they should be adjusted to make them consistent with the spirit of the NSSS. Therefore, one of the main objectives of the NSSS Action Plan is to rationalize the distribution of the allocation to all the lifecycle stages, as well as the thematic clusters.

The line chart above shows the trends in the number of beneficiaries of both regular social security (SS) and food security categories over the last 13 years. The number of regular SS beneficiaries rose steadily soaring high since 2018-19 FY. On the other hand, the number of beneficiaries in food security categories maintained an almost flat line till 2019-20 FY when it suddenly spiked to 8.83 crore. The sudden rise in the number of beneficiaries in both categories – far above the linear trendline – is obviously linked with the ongoing Covid-19 fallout. The increase in food security programmes is comparatively higher than regular SS. It is to be noted that the third category of social security beneficiaries does not represent any actual number of persons; it only indicates how many times services are provided. Therefore, the trend line of this category is not statistically significant and has not been compared with the other two categories. The Covid – 19 related lockdowns and associated slower economic growth may not allow the government to reduce the number of beneficiaries.

There is another method of ascertaining the number of SS beneficiaries employing survey of the household. According to the statistical report, the number of houses receiving at least, SS benefit was a little above 30 percent, though the ratio was found to be around 53 percent in a recent survey by BBS. The universalization of the primary school stipend and increase in some other social protection interventions might have contributed to an increase the number of beneficiaries. However, whatever may be the method of beneficiaries, it will be around half of the population as is planned in the NSSS. Even if the most conservative calculation is done based on only the regular SS, the number of beneficiaries will exceed 36 percent of the population.

4.14. Funding Arrangement

The full financing of the NSSS is based on cost-sharing arrangements between the Government and the private sectors. The public expenditure-financed component is only one part of the NSSS financing; the other part is the private sector based on social insurance and employment-based regulations. The the NSSS Action Plan stipulates that there will be three different sources of funding for social protection, though during the study it was found that it is the government exchequer which constituted almost the entire funding. However, as the private pension has been recently introduced, it will increase the contributory fundings soon.

4.14.1. Covid Response

The Covid-19 pandemic has caused unprecedented challenges globally, impacting economies, livelihoods, and the well-being of communities. Bangladesh, like many other countries, has faced significant socio-economic repercussions as a result of the pandemic. However, in response to these challenges, the government of Bangladesh has demonstrated its commitment to leveraging information and communication technology (ICT) through initiatives such as Smart Bangladesh.

These forward-thinking approaches aim to harness the power of technology to drive economic growth, enhance the quality of life for citizens, and achieve sustainable development. By integrating artificial intelligence, big data analysis, and digital transformation into various sectors, including social protection programs, Bangladesh has made notable strides in building a more inclusive and resilient society. This paper explores the successful implementation of digital technologies in Bangladesh's social protection system, particularly during the Covid-19 pandemic, and highlights the transformative potential of ICT in creating effective and efficient social protection for vulnerable populations.

4.14.2. Smart Bangladesh Initiatives

Building upon the success of Digital Bangladesh Vision of 2009, the government of Honourable Prime Minister, Sheikh Hasina has recently embarked upon implementing the Smart Bangladesh initiatives, aiming to leverage ICT to improve the economy, enhance citizens' quality of life, and achieve sustainable development. This initiative highlights the use of artificial intelligence and big data analysis to promote service delivery and transform the country into a cashless society. As part of this effort, the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) seeks to digitize social protection governance, ensuring that vulnerable segments of the population receive inclusive social protection coverage.

The Covid-19 pandemic has had a profound and widespread impact on the socio-economic conditions worldwide, with poverty rates increasing in many countries, particularly among the urban poor. Bangladesh is one of the countries that has faced significant challenges in dealing with the pandemic's economic fallout. The pandemic has disrupted global trade, supply chains, and forced businesses to shut down, resulting in the loss of livelihoods and income for many people around the world, including Bangladesh.

Nevertheless, the government's comprehensive approach was effective in mitigating the economic effects of the pandemic. This approach included increased social protection spending and cash incentives for different sections of people. The National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) and its action plan were also well-suited for the Covid-19 situation and included measures to address covariate shocks like pandemics.

To address this issue, the government launched several social protection schemes and financial assistance programs to support vulnerable segments of the population. However, the lockdown and social distancing made it challenging to deliver cash or in-kind benefits to the people. Despite this, the advantage of Smart Bangladesh proved to be instrumental in managing the distribution of cash benefits during the COVID-19 pandemic.

To support the targeted population from vulnerable families that were not covered by any social protection benefits during the Covid-19 pandemic, the government introduced a cash transfer package. Each family throughout the country was given 2500 taka (around 30 USD), which amounted to a total of 900 crores Taka (around 100 million USD). The government transferred the money from the treasury to the direct beneficiaries using the G2P method.

4.14.3. NSSS and Covid-19

The National Social Security Strategy (NSSS)-2015, which is a roadmap for reforming the social protection system of Bangladesh along a lifecycle framework, put covariate shock response in the core structure. It recommends digital transformation of all the social security services in consistence with the government vision of Digital Bangladesh and later ‘Smart Bangladesh’. Therefore, the NSSS proved compatible and also effectively relevant in handling Covid-related crisis.

The different spells of lockdown imposed by the government to prevent the spread of Covid- 19, inflicted great suffering for a lot of people. It was the poor and near-poor who bore the heaviest toll. Many of them lost their livelihoods while their families became displaced. However, the timely and comprehensive approach of the government, as kindly directed by the Honourable Prime Minister, Sheikh Hasina in tackling the Covid-19 proved very effective and achieved appreciation worldwide. The core of the Covid response was ‘balance between life and livelihood’.

4.15. Digital Cash Transfer

The government of Bangladesh launched a cash support program in response to the devastating impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on the economy, particularly on low-income groups. The program was aimed at providing financial assistance to those who were severely affected by the pandemic-induced lockdown. The program aimed to provide a one-time payment of 2500 taka (around 30 USD) to 50 lakh beneficiaries, including day laborers, farmers, house workers, motor laborers, and other low-income groups.

The cash support program made significant progress in delivering financial assistance to the intended beneficiaries. As of October 2020, a total of 34,97,353 beneficiaries had received the one-time payment of 2500 taka (30 USD), amounting to a total of 879 crores 85 lacs 42 thousand taka (nearly 100 million USD). The implementation of the program was conducted through various channels, with 34,06,373 beneficiaries receiving cash support through mobile financial services (MFS) accounts such as Nagad, Bkash, Rocket, and Surecash. In addition, 90,980 beneficiaries received the cash support through bank accounts.

The cash support program played a vital role in providing much-needed relief to those who were severely affected by the lockdown. It was particularly important for the low-income groups who faced significant financial challenges during the pandemic. The success of the program can be attributed to the government's timely intervention, effective coordination, and use of innovative technology, such as mobile financial services, to reach the intended beneficiaries. Overall, the cash support program was an essential component of the government's efforts to mitigate the economic impact of the pandemic and support vulnerable populations in Bangladesh.

4.15.1. Other Programmes for Covid Support:

However, the government's intervention was not limited to the aforementioned programs. Instead, the following is a list of other programs or interventions implemented to address COVID-related shocks:

Ministry/Division	Thematic Cluster	Age Group	Name of the Program	USD in Million (1 USD =85 BDT)
Secondary and Higher Education Division	Human Development & Social Empowerment	Working Age; School Age	Special grants for teachers and students of educational institutions	1.5
Finance Division	Livelihood	Working Age	Grants to 8 CMSME organizations to accelerate economic recovery in response to Corona Pandemic	109
Ministry of Labour and Employment	Livelihood	Covariate	Assistance for unemployed workers in the export - oriented garment and footwear industry due to Corona Pandemic	5.29
Finance Division	Livelihood	Working Age	Funds to deal with economic and natural shock	588
Finance Division	Livelihood	Working Age	Interest subsidy for Small (including cottage industries) Industries and Service Sector Enterprises affected by Corona Virus	329
Ministry of Public Administration	Social Assistance	Covariate	Grants for the families of government employees died in service	41.27
			Sub Total	1075

Overall, the government's timely and comprehensive approach, combined with the strategic utilization of digital transformation, has played a pivotal role in Bangladesh's effective response to the economic challenges posed by the pandemic and in providing crucial support to vulnerable populations. The targeted financial support package has served as a lifeline for those hardest hit by the crisis, offering much-needed relief and assistance. The government's efforts to develop precise selection criteria for identifying eligible households have been widely recognized and appreciated both domestically and internationally, underscoring the commitment to inclusivity and equity in social protection initiatives.

The successful leveraging of Bangladesh's robust ICT infrastructure during the pandemic has been instrumental in swiftly and efficiently delivering social benefits to those in need. This experience has not only showcased the resilience and adaptability of the country's digital ecosystem but has also highlighted the immense potential of technology in enhancing the effectiveness and accessibility of social protection programs. The remarkable outcomes achieved through the use of information technology and digital transformation provide a strong foundation for future endeavors to scale up the delivery of regular social protection programs.

The government's commitment to digital transformation, demonstrated through the Smart Bangladesh initiative, has proven instrumental in mitigating the economic impact of the pandemic and delivering targeted support to vulnerable populations. By leveraging ICT infrastructure and adopting innovative approaches, Bangladesh has showcased its ability to adapt and respond effectively to crises. As the country continues its journey towards the use of technology in social protection programs, there is great potential to achieve even greater outcomes in terms of inclusivity, efficiency, and accessibility.

NSSS ACTION PLAN (2021-26) PHASE - II FOR A MINISTRY/DIVISION.

Most of the ministries have made significant progress in implementing their respective action plans, with achievements reflecting their commitment to their missions and the fulfillment of specific goals. However, it's important to note that the performance of ministries may vary based on their unique mandates and objectives. These achievements demonstrate their dedication to serving their specific purposes and contributing to the broader goals and vision set by the government or relevant strategies. This section offers progress statements for individual ministries, highlighting their specific accomplishments and advancements in pursuit of their respective objectives and missions.

5.1. Ministry of Social Welfare

The Ministry of Social Welfare in Bangladesh plays a crucial role in implementing social security programs. It is known for its significant impact, serving a large number of beneficiaries and receiving substantial budget allocations. The ministry manages programs such as Old Age Allowances, Widow Allowances, and support for Persons with Disabilities, among others. It also has a comprehensive program to aid marginalized and disadvantaged groups, including the unemployed, landless, orphans, and individuals with various challenges. The ministry's initiatives align with the National Social Security Strategy, Sustainable Development Goals, and national development plans, focusing on a development-oriented approach rather than charity. The vision of the ministry is to create a "better life and caring society," in line with NSSS's goal of inclusive social security for all. Its mission revolves around providing social security, empowerment, and development for vulnerable groups and persons with disabilities. The ministry's key objective is to enhance the efficiency and inclusivity of lifecycle programs. However, it faces challenges in transitioning the social security system, with the need to meet unaccomplished targets from the previous term of the Action Plan.

The Secondary and Higher Education Division, operating under the Ministry of Education in Bangladesh, holds a key role in the policymaking and administration of secondary and tertiary education. It's responsible for high schools and universities, excluding technical and madrasa education. CODI Assessment of the Social Security Programs of Bangladesh

An innovative and enlightening addition to the report is the inclusion of Part 3, an appendix dedicated to the Core Diagnostics Instrument (CODI) assessment. This section applies the CODI tool, an internationally recognized assessment framework, to evaluate the country's social protection landscape. By measuring dimensions such as inclusiveness, good governance, and effectiveness, this assessment casts a wider net, providing an external and objective perspective on the nation's progress in social protection. Part 3 ensures that the report isn't confined to internal viewpoints alone but extends its analysis to align with global standards and benchmarks.

The three-part structure of the progress report creates a narrative that is both broad and focused, encompassing the grand vision of the NSSS, the intricate contributions of each ministry, and an exterior evaluation through CODI. This multi-layered approach enriches the report's insights, offering stakeholders a comprehensive understanding of the strategy's transformative journey. As a result, the report not only celebrates achievements but also pinpoints areas for more intensive attention, ensuring a holistic and forward-looking perspective on Bangladesh's social security evolution.

Key Recommendations based on CODI Assessment

Comprehensive Development of NSSF 2026+: The current NSSF is set to expire in 2026. For the upcoming NSSF 2026+, the GoB may follow a comprehensive and inclusive approach. Firstly, emphasize using empirical evidence, leveraging insights from regular, independent evaluations of existing programs, and the recent data such as the Population & Housing Census 2022 and Household and Income Expenditure Survey (HIES) 2022. This will improve targeting mechanisms and intervention efficiency. Secondly, promote inclusivity by involving diverse stakeholders, especially marginalized groups. Collaborate closely with CSOs and development partners to guarantee representation. Assess priority programs, considering lifecycle coverage, emerging demographic trends like an aging population, and areas like the MCBP that need expansion. Also, focus on programs targeting vulnerable demographics, considering harmonization pathways. Detailed plans for program consolidation are vital, addressing overlaps and evaluating consolidation efforts based on lessons from 2015-2025. Lastly, ensure policy coherence by strengthening inter-ministerial consultations, reinforcing the roles of GED and BBS, and fostering an environment of data sharing and joint planning. This holistic strategy will ensure a responsive, effective, and cohesive social protection system for all.

7. Conclusion and Recommendations

7.1. Conclusion

In this comprehensive progress report, a thorough exploration of the National Social Security Strategy (NSSS) Action Plan-Phase II (2021-26) in Bangladesh has been undertaken. The NSSS, driven by its holistic vision to reform the social protection system, reflects the nation's steadfast commitment to reducing poverty and inequality, all while fostering sustainable economic progress. As the curtain draws on this extensive assessment, it provides an opportunity to reflect upon the significant progress achieved, the challenges encountered, and the unwavering dedication to constructing a more equitable and inclusive society.

The NSSS has undoubtedly made substantial strides in realizing its vision. Through dedicated efforts to target marginalized groups and ensure their access to essential social services, the strategy has played a pivotal role in enhancing the well-being and livelihoods of the most vulnerable segments of the population. It has embraced a multifaceted approach, encompassing cash transfers, social insurance, and social services, to address the diverse needs of its citizens.

The meticulous preparation process of this report has been characterized by a rigorous and collaborative methodology. From consultation workshops to data aggregation, in-depth analysis within the Cabinet Division, and review and approval by the Action Plan Sub-Committee, this report is a product of scrupulous attention to detail and an unwavering commitment to accuracy. The technical assistance from the Social Security Policy Support (SSPS) Programme and the Technical Assistance and Support for Social Security Reform (TASSR) team has further enhanced its credibility.

Structured into three interconnected parts, this report has provided stakeholders with the opportunity to explore the NSSS from various dimensions. Part 1 has shed light on the achievements of the NSSS in reducing poverty, enhancing employment opportunities, and empowering vulnerable populations. It has prominently featured the expansion of the social safety net program, which has been effective in reducing poverty rates by specifically targeting the most economically disadvantaged segment of the population.

In Part 2, an exploration was made into the accomplishments of individual ministries and thematic clusters, examining reform initiatives, beneficiary selection processes, and the Government-to-Person (G2P) modality of cash transfer. While many ministries are making notable progress in pursuing their specific objectives, this report has also acknowledged the challenges they face, including external factors like the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic and the evolving global economic landscape.

Part 3 introduced an external perspective on the nation's progress in social protection through the Core Diagnostics Instrument (CODI) assessment. This external evaluation added an extra layer of analysis, ensuring that the assessment aligns with global standards and best practices.

As stakeholders reflect on the multifaceted progress of the NSSS, it is vital to recognize the key sectors contributing to Bangladesh's economic development. From the garment industry to advancements in agriculture, improvements in education, healthcare, women's empowerment, microfinance initiatives, renewable energy, and digitalization, the nation is steadfastly progressing towards becoming a "Smart Bangladesh." This vision underscores the commitment to harness digital technology and innovation for economic growth and improved governance.

While this report celebrates the successes and substantial strides made by the NSSS, it also acknowledges areas where the strategy has faced challenges and has not fully achieved its intended goals. These areas of non-performance necessitate immediate attention and remediation. Recognizing these challenges provides opportunities for growth and improvement.

In conclusion, this M&E report provides a comprehensive and insightful overview of the implementation progress of the NSSS Action Plan-Phase II. It underscores the strategy's achievements in reducing poverty, improving livelihoods, and advancing the well-being of vulnerable populations. It also takes into account the challenges faced by specific ministries, particularly in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic and the dynamics of the global economy.

The NSSS represents an ongoing journey, and as it continues, ongoing vigilance and adaptability will be essential to achieving its long-term objectives. This report serves as a testament to Bangladesh's dedication to its mission of promoting social protection and economic development. It is a reminder that, in the pursuit of equitable prosperity, challenges are not insurmountable roadblocks but opportunities to forge a stronger, more inclusive future. The pages of this report represent a chapter in that journey, and the story of the NSSS is far from over. With collective effort and unwavering commitment, Bangladesh is poised to achieve its vision of a more equitable and inclusive society, where every citizen has the opportunity to thrive.

Regularly engage in external assessments, such as the Core Diagnostics Instrument (CODI) assessment, to benchmark the progress against global standards and best practices.

Use external evaluations to identify areas for improvement and make evidence-based adjustments to the NSSS.

7.2.6. Adaptation and Resilience:

Build adaptability into the NSSS framework to respond to unforeseen challenges, such as the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic. Establish a strategic reserve fund to ensure a rapid response to emerging crises.

7.2.7. Communication and Public Awareness:
